

Planning For Emergency Reduced Income - Webinar Online Workshop

April ...2020

Have you or your family been impacted financially by COVID-19? Are you worried that your income may be impacted in the near future? Worrying about our health along with our finances can be scary, stressful, and can create a lot of stress on us and our families.

The Credit Counselling Society is a non-profit service available to help Canadians manage their expenses during challenging times. They will provide you with confidential one-on-one financial coaching. Their Client Care team answers the telephone on average within three seconds because they know how hard it is to pick up the phone and call them. Their team will answer your questions and either transfer you to a Credit Counsellor or, if you prefer, schedule an appointment for you with a Credit Counsellor at a location, time, and method (in-person or by telephone) that serves you best.

You have the opportunity to watch a practical webinar on how to plan for reduced income, deal with your bills as well as your creditors. You are not alone during these very troublesome COVID-19 times and the Credit Counselling Society is there to help you! You can watch their webinar video, or you can register to attend a live version and ask any questions you may have.
